

The Brunel Museum

Get married on the site of the first tunnel built underwater anywhere in the world.

Exposed concrete, original brick walls,
various artworks, and cultural exhibitions lend distinctive character to both
The Grand Entrance Hall and The Engine Room.

And so the adventure begins...

The underwater Tunnel Shaft has been reimagined as The Grand Entrance Hall and is entered via an elegant staircase. It was the first underground theatre in the world, where over 150 years ago acrobats, tightrope walkers, and entertainers performed. The Shaft is 50ft in diameter and 50ft deep – with smoke-blackened brick walls from steam trains, providing a raw but atmospheric backdrop.

Perfect for ceremonies for up to 100 guests, and seated wedding breakfasts for up to 80 guests. Its breathtaking grand space with beautiful acoustics will transform your celebration into an unforgettable day.

The Brunel Museum is licensed by Southwark Council to hold marriage and civil ceremonies. .
All in an unforgettable setting of our Grade II* listed Tunnel Shaft.

The unique alternative for your celebration

The Botanical Roof Garden sits on top of the Brunel Tunnel Grand Entrance Hall. It is ideal for welcome or post-ceremony drinks and photo opportunities.

The Midnight Apothecary is our exclusive drinks partner and they run a beautiful bar that is serving up seasonal cocktails, using ingredients grown in the garden itself.

As the sun sets over London, the firepits will crackle away to enjoy a unique, rustic atmosphere.

Why Marc and Sophia?

The story of the Thames Tunnel is above all a love story, with Marc writing, “Without you, my dear Sophie, no Tunnel’. Throughout its construction, Sophia Kingdom stood alongside her husband Marc Brunel as he battled floods, fire – and shareholders! They met against the dramatic backdrop of revolutionary France and together they faced debt, imprisonment and the construction of the Thames Tunnel. While we wish all our couples a much less stressful life together, we think their bond is something to be celebrated!

‘Our Marc and Sophia package celebrates the couple at the heart of the Thames Tunnel: Marc Brunel and Sophia Kingdom’.
